I disagree with the proposed change to the EPA's cleanup plans on the Willamette River Superfund site. Benzo(a)pyrene is toxic to humans, wildlife and the environment. Eventhough some studies show it may be less toxic than previously believed, it is still a carcinogen, and poses other health risks. Also we do not know its toxicity when it is combined with the other chemicals on site. Please do not leave more contamination at the site. Our future health depends on this cleanup.
