

Introduction

For more than a century, mining companies mined lead at the Big River Mine Tailings/St. Joe Mineral Corp. (Big River) Superfund site in St. Francois County, Missouri. Wind and erosion pathways – as well as municipal use of mine tailings and chat – contaminated soils, sediments, surface water and groundwater with lead. Cooperation by EPA, the Missouri Department of Natural Resources (MDNR), potentially responsible parties (PRPs), local governments and developers is leading to the successful cleanup and continued use and reuse of the site. Today, the site is home to residential, commercial, industrial, recreational, public services, agricultural and ecological areas.

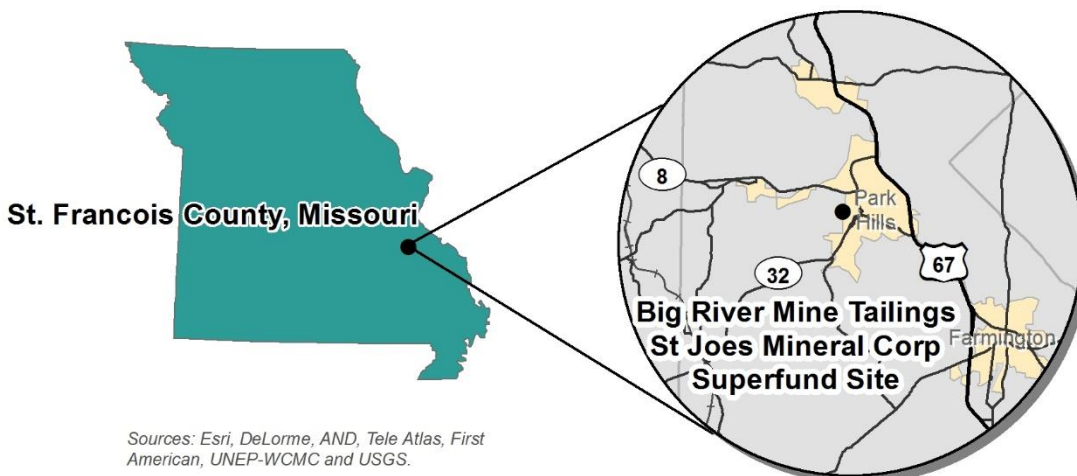

Superfund site restoration and reuse can revitalize local economies with jobs, new businesses, tax revenues and local spending. Cleanup may also take place while active land uses remain on site. However, active cleanups did not take place on all commercial or industrial properties profiled in this case study. This case study explores the Big River Mine Tailings/St. Joe Mineral Corp. (Big River) area’s cleanup, continued use and reuse, illustrating the beneficial effects of Superfund redevelopment.

Beneficial Effects

Site businesses in the response area employ about 5,871 people, providing estimated annual employment income of over $220 million and generating over $670 million in annual sales revenue.

Site properties in the response area are currently valued at nearly $828 million and generate nearly $8 million in annual property tax revenues.

Cleanup has allowed residential, commercial, industrial, recreational, public services and agricultural uses to continue on site. Innovative redevelopment projects led by the private sector and local governments are helping to offset the loss of jobs from mine closures and providing valuable community benefits.

Site History

The site extends throughout St. Francois County (about 110 square miles), which is located about 70 miles south of St. Louis. The cleanup has focused on eight main areas of mine waste, which has been deemed the response area. This case study focuses on that area, which include the cities of Bonne Terre, Desloge, Leadwood, Park Hills, Leadington and Doe Run. The case study profiles the cities of Bonne Terre, Desloge, Leadwood and Park Hills. Current land uses in the response area include residential, commercial, industrial, recreational, public services and ecological uses. According to the 2017 Census estimate, about 67,000 people live in St. Francois County.¹

Starting in the nineteenth century, many mining companies mined lead in the area known as the “Old Lead Belt” – present-day St. Francois County. The area was one of the world’s largest lead mining districts, producing more than nine million tons of pig lead. As a result of mining operations, about 250 million tons of mine waste tailings and chat were produced and stored in eight main areas. The areas are the Desloge Pile (Big River Pile), National Pile, Leadwood Pile, Elvins Pile, Bonne Terre Pile, Federal Pile (St. Joe State Park), Doe Run Pile and Hayden Creek Pile. Over the years, tailings and chat were used extensively as aggregate fill for ballast in railroads, aggregate in concrete and asphalt, fill for residential properties, and aggregate for road construction, and placed on public roads around the county to control snow and ice in the winter. Via these uses and transport by wind and water erosion, mine wastes contaminated site soils, sediments, surface water and groundwater with lead.

EPA and the state of Missouri began site investigations in St. Francois County in the late 1980s. During this time, access to the waste piles was unrestricted and the piles were unstable and subject to wind erosion. Most of the piles were hundreds of acres in size and as deep as 280 feet. Site investigations confirmed that site soils, sediments, air, surface and groundwater were contaminated with lead and also found that many area children had elevated blood lead levels. EPA placed the site on the Superfund program’s National Priorities List in October 1992.

Site Cleanup

To manage the cleanup, EPA divided the site into four operable units. Operable unit 00 addressed immediate risks to human health and the environment and involved removal actions and tailings pile stabilizations. Beginning in 1994, EPA issued Unilateral Administrative Orders to site PRPs for stabilization and removal actions for all tailings piles except the Doe Run and Hayden Creek Piles. Removal and stabilization actions began at the Desloge Pile in 1994; the last removal and stabilization work for these piles finished in 2013, at the Federal Pile.

Operable unit 1 addresses remediation of contaminated residential yards, schools and parks within 2 miles of the tailings piles. EPA began investigations for operable unit 1 in January 1997 and selected the remedy in the site's September 2011 Record of Decision. The remedy includes the excavation of residential yards, schools and parks until lead concentrations are less than 400 parts per million (ppm) in the top 12 inches. If lead concentrations are less than 1,200 ppm at 12 inches below ground surface (bgs), excavation will cease. If lead concentrations are greater than or equal to 1,200 ppm at 12 inches bgs, excavation will continue until lead concentrations are less than 1,200 ppm, or to a maximum depth of 24 inches bgs, whichever comes first. The remedy also includes on-site disposal of contaminated soils in designated repositories, replacement of contaminated soil with clean backfill and a vegetative cover, and institutional controls for any properties with lead levels remaining above 1,200 ppm. Cleanup actions for operable unit 1 began in September 2014 and are ongoing. To date, EPA has sampled over 5,000 residential properties and remediated over 1,300 residential yards, schools, daycares and parks.

Operable unit 2 addresses contamination in the Big River and Flat River, including the river bottoms, riverbank sediments and floodplain soils. EPA is currently conducting investigations for this operable unit and plans to issue a Record of Decision in 2021 for this operable unit. The Record of Decision will address ecological risks and impacted watersheds in the area. EPA has also conducted some cleanup of the Big River, which included removal of over 13,900 cubic yards of contaminated sediment in May-September 2018.

Operable unit 3 addressed interim time-critical removal actions at high-risk residential properties within 500 feet of mine waste piles. Under an Administrative Order on Consent with EPA, the responsible party began cleanup actions for operable unit 3 in September 2000 and completed them in September 2018.

Redevelopment Success Stories

Following investigations and cleanup within the response area, several redevelopment successes have unfolded in the cities of Park Hills, Bonne Terre and Desloge. The section below describes these success stories in greater detail.

Success Story – Park Hills Industrial Park

Park Hills, a centrally located city in St. Francois County and the response area with 8,655 residents, is the location of the National Mine tailings pile, which was owned by the Doe Run Company. Following the site’s listing on the National Priorities List in 1992, the Doe Run Company worked to remediate and stabilize the area. After remediation and stabilization work, the Doe Run Company donated the property to the Park Hills Chamber of Commerce in 1993. To help offset job losses from mine closures in the area, the Chamber of Commerce decided to turn the land into an industrial park. To do this, the Chamber of Commerce worked with the city of Park Hills to establish a tax-increment financing (TIF) district, in an area now called Park Hills Industrial Park, as an incentive for businesses to locate in the area. The Chamber of Commerce also worked with the city to subdivide the land into 27 parcels to facilitate land sales. The Piramal Glass Factory was the first company to locate on site, on a large parcel in the southwest part of the park, in 1994. Currently, 12 businesses and organizations are located in Park Hills Industrial Park. In total, they provide 953 jobs and over $52 million in estimated annual employee income. In 2017, they generated over $163 million in annual sales. The Chamber of Commerce continues to market remaining parcels. Several of the industrial park businesses are described in greater detail below.

Piramal Glass USA, Inc.

This company designs and makes glass packaging products for the pharmaceutical, cosmetics and perfumery, and specialty food and beverage industries. Its Park Hills facility is known locally as “the Glass Factory”; the company sells its products in over 50 countries and has a daily production capacity of 1,375 tons of glass across three facilities in the United States (Park Hills), India and Sri Lanka.² In 2017, the Park Hills plant generated over $123 million in estimated sales and contributed over $28 million in estimated employee income.

Lee Mechanical Contractors, Inc.

Founded in 1985, this business operates its corporate office and fabrication shop at Park Hills Industrial Park. The company operates in over 14 states, including Missouri, and provides project management, construction management and direct construction expertise to an array of clients.³ In 2017, the company provided over $15 million in estimated employee income.

MOCAP, LLC

This company makes plastic and rubber protective products in a 9,000-square-foot facility at Park Hills Industrial Park. The company has been operating for over 36 years and has manufacturing and sales locations around the world, including Canada, Germany, France and China.⁴ In 2017, the company generated over $18 million in sales revenue and provided nearly $5 million in estimated employee income.

Success Story – Bonne Terre Industrial Park

Located in the northern part of the response area and St. Francois County, Bonne Terre is the oldest lead mining and processing community in the county. For generations, residents relied on the mining industry as their main source of income. Following closure of the mines, the city sought ways to create new economic development opportunities. Early on, the city recognized its proximity to the St. Louis metropolitan area, Interstate 55 and Highway 67 and used these advantages to attract businesses to the area.

One of these areas, Bonne Terre Industrial Park, was established in 2002 to facilitate new industrial development. Located just off Highway 67, the facility had the additional advantage of being part of a TIF district, which provided additional funding and incentives for companies relocating to the area. Today, five businesses and organizations are located in Bonne Terre Industrial Park. In total, these businesses provide 30 jobs and over $1.7 million in estimated annual employee income. In 2017, the businesses generated over $8.5 million in annual sales. Several of these businesses are highlighted below.

GWS Contractors, Inc.

Incorporated in 1968, this company serves southeast Missouri, providing plumbing, piping, medical gas, process/stream piping, site utility and HVAC construction services for industrial, commercial, institutional, treatment plant and local government operations.⁵ In 2017, the company provided nearly $1 million in estimated employee income and generated about $2.1 million in estimated sales revenue.

Trelleborg, Inc.

This company moved its pipe seals manufacturing plant to Bonne Terre Industrial Park in 2017. Operating out of a new,

17,800-square-foot facility, the company cited Bonne Terre’s central location in the United States as a primary reason for the move.⁶ In 2017, the facility generated over $5.2 million in estimated sales revenue and provided over $350,000 in estimated employee income.

Waterwork Specialties, Inc.

This company has been operating in Missouri since 1988. It distributes water, sewer, fire protection and backflow prevention products for contractors, municipalities, and water and sewer districts. The company also provides backflow inspections and project consultations. The company provided over $300,000 in estimated employee income and generated over $1.1 million in estimated sales revenue in 2017.

Success Story – St. Joe State Park

Located in the southern part of the response area and close to the cities of Park Hills and Leadington, St. Joe State Park encompasses over 8,000 acres. For over 100 years, St. Joe Minerals Corp. mined lead within current park boundaries. In 1972, St. Joe Minerals Corp. ceased operations at the site and donated the land to the state in 1976. Recognizing the need for more recreational and ecological resources in the area, the Missouri Department of Natural Resources established St. Joe State Park later that year. The historic milling complex used by St. Joe Minerals Corp. still stands and has been designated as a Missouri Mines State Historic site. It now houses a rock and mineral museum and a gallery of mining equipment.⁷

Today, St. Joe State Park offers area residents and visitors a variety of recreation opportunities. The park includes a popular riding area for off-road vehicle use, one of two in the state park system. The park has 54 miles of trails for off-road vehicle use, some of which traverse former mine tailing areas. Other recreation opportunities include camping, mountain biking, canoeing and kayaking, horseback riding, hiking and fishing. In the winter, cross-country skiing and snowmobiling are popular activities. The park has four lakes that are stocked for fishing; two of the lakes have swimming beaches. Maturing second-growth forests with native oak and hickory cover much of the park. Native grasslands and intermittent streams and wetlands provide opportunities to view native wildlife, including bear, deer, coyote, rabbits, birds, turtles and snakes. In 2017, the park generated nearly $1.8 million in estimated sales revenue and provided nearly $800,000 in estimated employee revenue.

Success Story – Desloge City Park

Located on 21 acres near downtown Desloge, Desloge City Park includes an Olympic-size swimming pool, tennis courts, picnic tables, barbeque pits, an amphitheater, a walking and running path, and playgrounds. The park is open year-round and also allows residents to reserve pavilions and gazebos for functions and gatherings.⁸ The city hosts an annual Labor Day picnic at the park that includes carnival rides, music, a car show, a motorcycle show and a beer garden.

Figures 13-14. Recreation areas at Desloge City Park.

Beneficial Effects

Today, the response area is home to continued uses and reuses in the cities of Bonne Terre, Desloge, Leadwood, Park Hills, Leadington and Doe Run. These land uses include residential, commercial, industrial, recreational, public services, agricultural and ecological areas. Cleanup in the response area has allowed many businesses to continue operating, preventing job losses and the loss of community income. Businesses that operate on site bolster the local economy and generate local and state tax revenues. Many recreational and public service uses in the response area were also able to remain open because of site cleanup. This section describes the beneficial effects of continued uses and reuses at the site.

Commercial/Industrial Continued Use and Reuse

The response area is home to nearly 600 commercial and industrial businesses and organizations. They range from insurance agencies, car dealerships and restaurants to automotive repair shops and a variety of manufacturing operations. Together, they employ 5,871 people and provide over $220 million in annual employee income. In 2017, combined annual sales revenues generated by on-site businesses were over $670 million. The section below profiles some of these businesses.

⁸ <https://www.desloge.com/parks---recreation.html>.

Walmart, Inc.

Located in the city of Desloge, the Walmart Supercenter includes home and grocery areas, an auto care center, a pharmacy, a photo center and a vision center.⁹ It operates out of a 50,000-square-foot building. The business provided estimated employee income of nearly $7 million and had sales of nearly $48 million in 2017.

Proffer Wholesale Produce, Inc.

Recreational Continued Use and Reuse

In addition to the commercial and industrial uses described above, cleanup of the response area has allowed the continued use and reuse of recreation areas. This section highlights some of these areas in greater detail.

Brightwell Park

Following the site's listing on the National Priorities List and prior to cleanup, the Doe Run Company donated 33 acres of land near the National Pile to the city of Desloge. Recognizing the need for more recreation areas and ball fields, the city established Brightwell Park in 1983. Today, the park includes three ball fields, a playground and a running trail that connects to other parks in the city. Desloge Community Baseball runs a youth baseball league and uses the park for its games and practices. In 2007, under EPA oversight, the Doe Run Company remediated contaminated areas of Brightwell Park, enabling its continued use.

Lead Belt Golf Club

Located next to Bonne Terre Industrial Park and near downtown Bonne Terre, Leadbelt Golf Club offers a 9-hole public golf course. The course opened in 1922 and is a par 36 course. In 2017, the course generated nearly $150,000 in estimated sales revenue and provided nearly $125,000 in estimated employee income.

Bonne Terre Drag Strip

Located in Bonne Terre, this drag strip opened in 2014. The land was previously the location of a mine tailings pond. Bonne Terre Drag Strip offers an eighth-of-a-mile asphalt track with a concrete launch area for drag racing. Special events are held several times a year. The facility also includes a parking area, a viewing stand, a racing tower and a concession stand.¹⁵

Public Services Continued Use

The site's cleanup has also made possible continued public service uses in St. Francois County. Cleanup of operable unit 1 focused on schools, remediating contaminated soils at all school properties in the response area with high lead levels. Today, 12 public schools, including elementary, middle and high schools, continue to operate in the response area. These schools employ over 500 teachers and support staff and provided over $19 million in estimated employee income in 2017. Other public service uses in the response area include libraries, emergency service and fire services facilities, law enforcement facilities, postal services, and utility services.

Figures 23-26. Cleanup has enabled public services, like schools, post offices and libraries to continue to operate on site.

Reuse on the Horizon

In addition to continued uses and reuses in the response area, the cities of Bonne Terre, Leadwood, Desloge and Park Hills are also focused on new development projects to continue to bring jobs and services to the area.

Bonne Terre Industrial Park Expansion

City officials are exploring expansion opportunities for Bonne Terre Industrial Park. The city owns a 120-acre tract of vacant land next to the park. Extending Industrial Drive onto the tract could enable additional industrial development. The Southeast Missouri Planning & Economic Development Commission is providing resources to help make the expansion possible. The locality's goal is for Bonne Terre to become a regional center for new industrial development.

Bonne Terre Solar Energy Reuse

The Bonne Terre Pile is centrally located between Highway 67 and residential areas in Bonne Terre. The city is working with the Doe Run Company (the owner of the tailings pile) to identify productive uses for level areas at the top of the pile. The city is looking at installing solar panels on 25 acres at the top of the pile. If feasible, the project could spur renewable energy projects on other tailings piles in the area.

Downtown Leadwood – Former Bank Buildings

Following the closure of the mines, Leadwood’s population declined and many of its businesses left as well. One of these businesses was the Leadwood Bank, which was part of a vibrant commercial block next to Leadwood City Hall. Today, the block is vacant and used only for construction storage. A local contractor is planning to restore the buildings to host stores, office space and apartments.

Desloge Eastern Outer Road Commercial Development

Located east of Highway 67, the Eastern Outer Road commercial development would be located in an undeveloped part of Desloge that has infrastructure already in place. One of Desloge’s TIF districts is set to expire in 2019 and city officials are looking at this area as a possible candidate for the next TIF district. Potential future uses for the 30-acre property include commercial retail space, with a particular emphasis on car dealerships and grocery stores.

Park Hills Flat River Stabilization Area

Remediated floodplain areas along the Flat River in Park Hills offer a potential recreational greenway opportunity. The areas offer river access and include a vacant rail line. City officials are currently exploring opportunities to make this potential recreation resource a reality.

“There is much potential for redevelopment at the Big River Mine Tailing Superfund Site. Reuse of commercial property is encouraged and EPA has worked with developers and local utility companies by reviewing workplans, sampling plans, etc. Using the Missouri Environmental Covenants Act (MoECA), EPA can work with business owners to help develop property within the Site while keeping environmental issues in mind.”

– Jason Gunter, EPA Remedial Project Manager

Property Values and Tax Revenues

On-site properties help generate property tax revenues that support local government and public services. Today, site properties have a combined value of nearly $828 million. In 2017, site properties generated nearly $8 million in total property tax revenues. On-site businesses also generate tax revenues through the collection of sales taxes, which support state and local governments.¹⁶

Conclusion

Collaboration and cooperation among EPA, MDNR, PRPs, local governments and developers has been vital to the successful cleanup and beneficial continued use and reuse of the Big River Mine Tailings/St. Joe Mineral Corp. Superfund site. EPA and MDNR’s carefully designed cleanup protects public health and the environment, has enabled businesses, parks, schools and neighborhoods to remain vibrant, and made redevelopment projects possible. Donations of land by site PRPs and establishments of TIF districts in key areas has allowed redevelopment projects to flourish and helped offset the loss of jobs from mine closures.

Today, the response area is home to continued uses and reuses in the cities of Bonne Terre, Desloge, Leadwood, Park Hills, Leadington and Doe Run. These land uses include residential, commercial, industrial, recreational, public services, agricultural and ecological areas. On-site businesses support local economic growth, providing nearly 5,900 jobs and over $220 million in estimated annual employee income. In 2017, on-site businesses generated over $670 million in sales revenue. With more land now available for productive use, local governments continue to pursue new projects that will bring jobs and services to the area.

Technical Appendix

Employment Information for On-Site Jobs

EPA obtained the data included in this appendix directly from reputable sources and reported the data as presented by those sources. Information on the number of employees and sales volume for on-site businesses came from the Hoovers/Dun & Bradstreet (D&B) database.¹ EPA also gathered information on businesses and corporations from D&B. D&B maintains a database of 300 million businesses worldwide.

When Hoovers/D&B database research was unable to identify employment and sales volume for on-site businesses, EPA used the ReferenceUSA database.² In cases where ReferenceUSA did not include employment and sales volume for on-site businesses, EPA used the Manta database.³ These databases include data reported by businesses. Accordingly, some reported values might be underestimates or overestimates. While sales values typically exceed estimated totals of annual income, sales can sometimes be lower than estimated income. This could be attributed to a number of business conditions and/or data reporting.

Wage and Income Information for On-Site Jobs

EPA obtained wage and income information from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). Part of the U.S. Department of Labor, the BLS is the principal federal agency responsible for measuring labor market activity, working conditions and price changes in the economy. All BLS data meet high standards of accuracy, statistical quality and impartiality.

EPA used the BLS Quarterly Census of Employment and Wages database to obtain average weekly wage data for businesses at the Big River Mine Tailings/St. Joe Minerals Corp. Superfund site. Average weekly wage data were identified by matching the North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) codes for each type of business with weekly wage data for corresponding businesses in St. Francois County. If weekly wage data were not available at the county level, EPA sought wage data by state or national level, respectively. In cases where wage data were not available for the six-digit NAICS code, EPA used higher-level (less-detailed) NAICS codes to obtain the wage data.

To determine the annual wages (mean annual) earned from jobs generated by each of the selected businesses at the Big River Mine Tailings/St. Joe Minerals Corp. Superfund site, EPA multiplied the average weekly wage figure by the number of weeks in a year (52) and by the number of jobs (employees) for each business.

^a NAICS code provided in the D&B database, unless otherwise noted.

^b Data are from the D&B database.

^c Average weekly wage per employee based on BLS 2017 Average Weekly Wage data.

^d Total annual employee income figures derived by multiplying "Number of Employees" by "Annual Wage (Mean Annual) per Employee."

^e Data are from the ReferenceUSA database.

^f Annual sales value calculated using the "Sales Per Employee" method. In cases where information sources do not provide annual sales data, an estimated annual sales value was calculated using the "Sales Per Employee Method." This method involves dividing the company-wide sales value by the number of employees that work at all branches of the business. That value equals an estimated business sales value per employee for the entire company. That value is then multiplied by the number of employees at the on-site business location to calculate an estimated annual sales value for the site-specific business location.

^g While sales values typically exceed estimated totals of annual employee income, annual reported sales can sometimes be lower than estimated annual income. This atypical condition of estimated income exceeding sales can be a result of business conditions, estimated business wages not accurately reflecting actual wages for the site-specific business, annual sales being under-reported, a business loss for the year or a combination of those factors.

^h Assumed NAICS code based on business type.
